Our Process

The Lanza Vineyards Primitivo comes from our LMP vineyard location. Due to the popularity of Italian wine varietals, a large percentage of our Primitivo grapes ship to East Coast home winemakers.

The Primitivo grape grows primarily in Italy's Puglia region. Research indicates that Primitivo, like the very similar Zinfandel grape in California, is a clone of an ancient Croatian grape called Crljenak Kaštelanski. While it originated in Croatia, its high yields and love for the warm, temperate climate make it a perfect grape for our Suisun Valley climate.

Tasting Notes

Our 2019 Suisun Valley Primitivo has a dusty garnet color in the glass. Fruity aromas of ripe black cherry greet you on the nose. The bright fruit flavors are highlighted by black raspberry and strawberry. The finish is medium length with restrained tannins and well-integrated oak flavors. This is a juicy, flavorful, and well-balanced wine that drinks smoothly. Enjoy with pizza, burgers, and steaks. It's bold enough to match up with meals cooked with thick red sauces.
